Full-time philosopher and occasional sleuth Isabel Dalhousie, now the mother of a baby boy, is getting used to the new rhythms of her life, caring for little Charlie with the sometimes unsettling aid of her forthright housekeeper, Grace, having dinners with Charlie's father, Jamie, and tending as usual to submissions to the Review of Applied Ethics. But Isabel is deeply unsettled when she receives a letter telling her that she is soon to be replaced as editor of the Review by Christopher Dove, an ambitious academic at a London university, and she considers a variety of ways of dealing with this unwelcome news. And her niece, Cat, who a couple of years before had rejected Jamie and broken his heart, is now furious at Isabel for having stolen him away. Isabel's insatiable curiosity—or what Jamie sees as her tendency toward meddling—is peaked when she learns some odd details regarding two paintings by a Scottish artist that have come onto the auction market, and she begins to think that the paintings might be forgeries. Her investigation takes her to the beautiful Isle of Jura, where she finds some recent traces of the painter and learns of his apparent suicide in the fabled whirlpool called the Corryvreckan. A visit to the painter's widow brings a surprising realization, one that contributes to her musings throughout the story on mothers, fathers, and sons.

Featuring detailed analysis of medieval homilies and sermons from St. Augustine, St. Gregory the Great, St. Bonaventure, John Colet, and Henry Suso, as well as original sermons available for the first time in English from Peter Damien and Stephen Langdon, this book is an ideal tool for pastors, deacons, retreat leaders, and homiletic students. It also serves to introduce readers into the theology and the history of the period.

Destined to be a full-length animated film: HERMIE, a hermit crab, plays a key role in the life of the family of four who adopted him. He realizes his new life makes a profound difference in all their lives. Laughing, crying, working, and playing together makes all of the difference, thus, a family. Shared responsibility is the major focus of this delightful "saga." Born into a family of educators, the author recorded sixty years of tales. Having attended a one-room school for two years, taught by her father, then again as her seventh grade teacher, and later as her principal, she gleaned countless lessons. Married forty-five years, with a daughter, son, daughter-in-law, and a granddaughter, she has pursued a rewarding lifestyle. Among her accomplishments, being a published poet, she acknowledges ten awards from the American Family Institute, as well as a "Who's Who in America's Teachers." Her teaching career at the private K-12 York Country Day School in York, Pennsylvania-as well as twenty years in public education-further enhanced her repertoire. Hermie tales have been written for forty years. Based on true experiences of her family adopting their first hermit crab, she has documented many, many instances that have kept the family laughing and oftentimes crying together.

American government is not just one story—it's many stories. Our stories. And they are still being told. In American Government: Stories of a Nation, author Scott Abernathy tunes in to the voices of America's people, showing how diverse ideas throughout our nation's history have shaped our political institutions, our identities, the way we participate and behave, the laws we live by, and the challenges we face. His storytelling approach brings the core concepts of government to life, making them meaningful and memorable, and allowing all students to see themselves reflected in the pages. For the new Brief Edition, Abernathy has carefully condensed and updated the content from the Full version, giving you the information you need--and the stories you can relate to--in a more concise, value-oriented package.
